

North County's Newest 'Crime Fighter'--a Computer

By FRANK LAPIERRE

There is a modern day device now being eyed by law enforcement agencies that hopefully will provide the means to curb the rising incidence of crime in the streets.

This device may be just the gadget police need to pinpoint where, when and how crimes will occur so they can be ready and waiting for the criminal to strike.

The "miracle machine" being talked of so highly in police circles these days is simply a computer, similar to those computers found in countless offices around the country used to compile data on everything from tax forms to water bills.

As the days go by more and more police departments have begun employing computers to help them in their battle against muggings, forcible rapes, aggravated assaults and home burglaries.

As an example of how computers can aid police the town of Seaside (Monterey) started feeding data into a rented computer about three years ago.

The results have been remarkable. For the past four months the city's computer has yielded 27 burglary arrests and helped in the recovery of $20,000 in stolen property, using only two detectives.

Seaside feeds known criminal reports covering the past four years into the computer and the readout sheet shows where the law of averages figure the next crime will take place.

And while the use of computers to catch crooks is still not far beyond the theory stage, lawmen have great hope it is the secret weapon they have searched so long for.

Police emphasize computers would not be used as prosecution material against any individual, rather the equipment would calculate times and places of expected criminal activities based on past incidents programmed into it.

Daly City has proposed the use of its computer bank, already installed at City Hall, to help them light crime.

A new "crime protection" task force comprised of Daly City, Pacifica, South San Francisco and San Bruno will start compiling statistics on July 1 of this year, in cramped quarters inside City Hall in Daly City.

This joint venture was formed with a federal grant of some $80,000.

The unit will use whatever tools they think necessary to combat crime in the streets, according to Daly City Police Officer Steven Lowe.

Each city will assign one policeman to the unit.

Lowe called the multi-force unit "the coming thing" in the computer - versus - crime battle.

The officer pointed out that (Please See Page 2, Column 2)

SIGNING UP IN MILLBRAE -- When Millbrae city officials this month mailed out notices that they would be enforcing the city's four-year-old sign ordinance that calls for a maximum limit of 32 square feet per sign, the immediate result was a verbal storm of protest. It is estimated by city council members that 200 to 250 of the business signs in Millbrae do not conform to the city's rules, and that few of them have been changed to meet the city ordinance during the four-year delay. As a result, a committee of businessmen is now meeting with city aides to work out a solution. This photo by Times cameraman Mike Spinelli shows how much signs are a part of the Millbrae scene. The picture, taken with a telephoto lens, compresses distance. The scene, taken on El Camino Real looking north, spans a distance of four or five blocks.

Board Session Plays to Capacity Audience

The regular meeting of the Jefferson Elementary School District Board Wednesday night at city hall in Daly City was rowdier than usual.

Charges of mismanagement concerning construction of the seventh and eighth grade school at St. Francis Heights came under fire from David M. Parker.

Parker, a candidate in the April school board election, said he did not think the school could be constructed for the $1.8 million in bond money available. He said he deplored an alleged statement by Supt. Frank L. Greenwood that the district would dip into its operating budget to find added funds.

Parker pointed to the fact that teachers had not had a pay raise in some time and said the money should be used to give them a raise "rather than spend it on an unneeded school."

Along with others Parker presented the argument against construction of the school -- the steady decline in student population in the district.

At the height of his denunciation of the manner in which the board was pushing through the school construction, Trustee Edward Tomassello interrupted Parker to congratulate him on entering the school board race.

Chairman Albert Collett explained there would be a series of public hearings on the school site following opening of construction bids.

The city hall council chambers were filled to capacity by an assortment of groups who had come to air an assortment of grievances.

A brouhaha developed almost immediately after the opening of the session when allegations concerning the behavior of Washington School Principal Dr. William L. Fowler were hurled about.

Fowler has been in the district since last summer following his departure from a Sacramento school district.

Adrian Saulny, parent of a child attending Washington School and secretary of the Black Caucus, touched off an intra-board argument when he charged that Fowler's credentials were being investigated elsewhere.

Daly City police are today faced with one of the most bizarre double homicides in their history.

The killings occurred late on Friday at 1161 Hanover Street in the eastern sector of the city while a family and friends, including five small children, sat watching television.

As J. D. Cantrell, 32, leaned over to talk to his wife who was lying on the floor watching television shortly before midnight, he suddenly shouted he had been stabbed in the back.

Whirling around, the stabbing victim grabbed a .38-caliber handgun and began chasing George Nullner, 36, his alleged attacker, through the home, firing at him.

Cantrell fired four shots at Nullner before crumpling in a bloody heap on a hallway floor. Nullner was hit twice -- in the head and chest.

Hospital authorities probounced Cantrell dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City at 11:38 p.m. Nullner died early this morning following several hours of surgery at the same hospital. He had two stab wounds in the back.

Detective Harry Lax, in charge of the investigation, said he had "absolutely no motive" for the puzzling double slayings 12 hours after the incident shattered the quiet residential neighborhood.

The Cantrells moved to Daly City from Sacramento only three months ago.

Nullner, whose last known address was in Alaska, was considered a "close friend" of the Cantrells and had moved into the home with them.

Along with Cantrell and his wife, Mrs. Cantrell's mother, an unidentified San Francisco housewife and her children, and the Cantrells' children.

A 16-year-old boy, also undetitled at this time, was asleep in a back bedroom.

The boy told police the gunshots awoke him and he ran outside the bedroom to witness in horror as Cantrell allegedly gunned down Nullner.

The San Francisco woman grabbed the five small children when the shooting started and took them to her home where her husband cared for them. She immediately returned to the murder scene, police said.

Neither Lax nor Detective Dennis Prator could shed any light on the motive for the killings.

"Everybody in the house says the two victims were the closest of friends," Lax said.

Lax said there had been "moderate drinking" but six packs of mail liquor.

Both knife and handgun were recovered from the scene, police (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

First Steps on Locally Financed Flood Control

South San Francisco councilmen took action last night to get the ball rolling on a locally financed Colma Creek Flood Control project.

They passed a resolution urging the county supervisors to proceed with the project--which they would do through the Colma Creek Flood Control Zone.

South San Francisco councilmen expected Daly City councilmen to adopt a similar resolution the same evening, while San Bruno was to adopt such a resolution last night. They hoped Pacifica, which was thought to be a series of routine matters, set for 7:30 taxpayers would contribute. In addition, county taxpayers (California Golf and Country Club, Country Club Park and San Bruno Mountain) would pay $125,000, Colma, $80,000, and Pacific (part of Westview), $5000.

All of these cities have already been served by multi-million dollar claims for damages from victims of this year's flooding.

Next steps will be to hire a consultant to prepare a report presenting alternative plans and cost estimates, and to order preparation of an environmental impact statement. The Colma Zone has enough funds available for these steps.

After that, the county must hold a public hearing, adopt a project for the zone and adopt a fair ratio of tax rates in the subzones. It is not known at this time if an election will be held to establish authority for zone taxes.

Final plans will be to order preparation of plans and specifications, and advertise for bids. Sanders estimates a three-year project. South San Francisco City Engr. Fred Hull estimates that "once started" the project could be built in 18 months to two years.

while use of computers in this field is in the "embryo stage," dramatic results are expected from their use in coming years.

In the meantime, most people—especially senior citizens and women—are afraid to venture out after dark.

Crime in the street has become so much a part of life in many American cities that police are now schooling people on what to do if they are attacked.

Almost half of all personal attacks, such as purse-snatching and robberies, are committed during broad daylight, police reports reveal.

So bold are today's street muggers they apparently do not fear either recognition or interference from bystanders. This public apathy, the "I don't want to get involved" attitude of today's citizens, is one reason for the rise in daylight crimes, police claim.

San Bruno Police Chief Russell Cunningham said people today are "justified in not going out alone at night."

While there are not a lot of strong-arm robberies and muggings in his city of 37,000, Cunningham pointed out that people read in newspapers and see on television what is happening in other cities and they become frightened.

The veteran police chief blames the crime rise on two factors: the widespread use of drugs, and displacement of urban things from San Francisco to the suburbs.

Even the Bay Area Rapid Transit system may aid criminals.

Some police say the opening of BART to Peninsula cities will provide criminals with a new source of revenue, similar to muggings and robberies on metro trains in large eastern cities.

How BART will work with local law enforcement agencies on this matter has not been discussed as yet.

The current use of BART terminals on the Peninsula has managed to hold the line on crimes in the face of a rising population coupled with an increase in transient families, relocation out of its neighbor city—San Francisco.

There were 58 armed robberies, 36 strong-arm, 10 purse-snatchers, 628 burglaries (homes), 244 auto burglaries and 887 miscellaneous thefts in Daly City last year—a slight total increase over the previous year.

Much sought-after items now the target of thieves are 10-speed bicycles. There were 326 such thefts in Daly City last year, a dramatic jump over the previous year.

Part of the county's crime prevention program deals with talks at public meetings and schools by police officers, and distribution of literature on the subject.

"The only crime that cannot be prevented is murder," Capt. David Hansen of the Daly City Police Department said. "This is a crime of passion or one committed by a professional."

In such instances computers would be useless, he said.

Once data can be obtained and fed into a computer, high risk crime areas can be better defined and added police would be assigned to patrol there.

Both Russell and Chief Roland Petroch of Daly City agree no criminal will break the law in front of a policeman.

There are two things criminals do not like—police patrols and well-lit areas.

Cunningham suggests that women first of all never walk alone at night and always stick to well-lit streets. Also walk along the curb and away from walls and doorways that might harbor a mugger.

Motorists who like to play the part of the "Good Samaritan" should first check out the status of on hitchhikers, who rob the person picking them up. They would be quickly discouraged, police say.

Unfortunately for today's policeman, as fast as new steps are

Three Youths Arrested for Bruno Shots

An 18-year-old San Bruno and two juveniles were booked early this morning on charges of firing a weapon into an occupied dwelling.

Arrested were Alex Torres, of 2390 Valleywood Drive, and two 16-year-old companions.

Police said they responded to a report of shots being fired shortly after 1 a.m. at 1881 Willow Way. Six shots were reported, but police said they could only account for three.

Police said they found a slug, possibly a .22-caliber, that apparently had been shot through a bedroom window into a wall. Two other shots apparently were fired into a car parked in front of the residence, police said.

Upon arrival, police saw a sedan leaving the area. The license plate was noted and the vehicle checked out as belonging to Torres, police said.

According to police, Torres came walking up to the house a short while after the incident, without a car, which was found alone Evergreen Drive where it had jumped a curb.

Police were investigating the motive today.

S.S.F. Gets Federal Disaster Aid

San Luis Obispo and Marin counties and the city of South San Francisco are eligible today for federal disaster aid to repair damage caused by rainstorms, high tides and floods.

Solano and Santa Barbara counties may also be eligible. President Nixon, shortly after his arrival at the Western White House Thursday for his first visit to California since his re-election, declared the state eligible for "major disaster area" relief.

Nixon acted at the request of Gov. Ronald Reagan, who said that although they were not included in the request and private property in South

San Francisco and the counties of Marin and San Luis Obispo since January 12.

Reagan added Solano and Santa Barbara counties to the request Thursday.

A White House spokesman said that although they were not included in the request and private property in South covered by its relief provisions. The relief is administered by the regional headquarters in San Francisco of the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

If Gov. Reagan and the OEP regional director, Robert Stevens, agree that the damage in Solano and Santa Barbara counties occurred in the same disaster, federal aid will automatically be available for those counties too under the provisions of Nixon's declaration Thursday, the Western White House said.

The Small Business Administration makes low interest loans available to owners of damaged homes and businesses in the disaster area.

Soldier Asks For Custody Of His Son, 2

A 20-year-old Pacific soldier has filed suit in San Mateo County Superior Court seeking custody of his nearly 2-year-old illegitimate son.

Daniel Lucero, stationed at Fort Carson, Colo., wants his son, Antonio, who will be next month, to be released to his custody from the County Receiving Home.

Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn gave Deputy District Attorney Carol Houser 10 days Friday in which to file a brief on behalf of the county, which is opposing the custody petition, with attorneys George Carey and Fred Lyon representing Lucero, an additional five days to answer.

According to the attorneys, the child's mother was 16 years of age at the time of the child's birth on Easter Day, 1971. She had been in a foster home, but ran away when the baby was 14 months old. Young Lucero said he would have been willing to marry her, but was prohibited because of her age.

Lucero joined the Army so he could have an income to provide for the child, nicknamed "Domingo" because of his Easter Day birth. Lucero said he will be discharged from the Army if he gains custody of his son, and that he has been promised a job with a moving firm.

Lucero's attorneys said that the father's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lucero, 215 Golden Bay Drive, will be able to care for the child pending Lucero's discharge and during days when he is working.

The legal issue before Judge Cohn is whether the child has been "taken into the family" as its own. They claim he has by virtue of frequent visits and contact with the youngster by the grandparents.

Color Guard In First Place

The Conquistadors Color Guard won first place in a competition at Concord, marking the Northern Peninsula drill unit's first overall victory in three years of competition.

In addition to taking top score with 36.1 points, the 16-guard won the trophy for best marching and maneuvering among "B" guard units in the show.

Kelly Munn, of South San Francisco, received the award for "best captain" among the competing units from throughout Northern California.

The Conquistadors guard, including girls from several northern Peninsula cities, is in its third year of competitive drill activity. The unit is part of the Conquistadors Drum & Bugle Corps, an 80-member youth group sponsored by a parents' booster club and South San Francisco VFW Post 4103.

State to Sue Bruno on Zoning

San Bruno planning commissioners had no comment last week when City Planner Jack Mulquoney read an ominous letter received from A. Matthew Raggio, attorney with the legal division of the state Division of Highways.

The letter, actually sent to City Manager Gerald Minford, informed the city that the state is in the process of preparing a lawsuit for filing in the near future because of the city council's recent rezoning of state-owned land in Crestmont Canyon to an O zone for open space use.

At the time the rezoning was unanimously approved, the council was told that legal action would possibly be taken to invalidate the rezoning.

According to state attorneys at that time, the rezoning amounted to "confiscation" of the state-owned property. The area in question has been set aside for the extension of Interstate 380 to the Pacific coast.

However, a court injunction has prevented construction until an environmental impact statement is prepared, and reviewed by the courts.

The possibility exists that the courts will rule that the roadways should not be built through Crestmont Canyon. That being the case, the state would sell the property for its "highest and best use."

It was pointed out by state highway division attorneys that the rezoning to open space would reduce the land value for resale.

In other business, the commissioners accepted a 40-page Environmental Impact Report on the Bayhill Shopping Center, acknowledging and including criticism and suggestions from residents Terri Rasmussen and Ellie Larsen that the report didn't include serious consideration of some important factors, such as trees for windbreaks and traffic problems.

Approved a dance permit at Nardi's Restaurant, 310 Pacific Heights Plaza.

Authorized the sale of antiques at 586 San Mateo Avenue.

Granted a time extension, until March 4, 1974, for an existing outdoor advertising sign at Tanforan Park Shopping Center to remain intact, until a new one is approved.

Millbrae Sign Law Repeal?

Protesting enforcement of the city sign law, dozens of merchants doubled the meeting of Millbrae City Councilmen last week as they clamored for a repeal.

Millbrae's regular council meeting was ending when Mayor Bernice Esser said "I think some people are here to speak about the sign ordinance." For more than an hour the council heard complaints about the sign ordinance which just went into effect.

This is not a new law, but one that is four years old. When approved in 1959 city officials deliberately wrote in a four-year moratorium, to allow businesses to make a painless shift to newer signs.

It was not until letters were sent out to more than 250 merchants last week that businessmen began taking the city seriously, according to one of them.

The letters are individually written pointing out specifically why the signs are non-conforming.

"We were busy with our work," said hotelman Earl Wilms, "and neglected to come down here when this law was being passed."

"We came down here to see what we can do to stop or change this ordinance," said pizza purveyor Leslie Dodd.

"I have read this 18 pages of sign ordinance," said insurer Otto Graf. "It is very myopic, very small. It doesn't have any imagination."

While complaining that Millbrae was trying to force him to comply with its sign ordinance, Graf said Monterey and Carmel are commendable because they have "forced" compliance with their sign laws and said local businesses would be happy if the city sign law required a Spanish motif.

Others said they would be willing to follow a stylized motif, of some sort, probably Spanish, to help improve the city.

D.C. Pair Arrested

Two young Daily City men were arrested after they allegedly fired two shots from a .22 caliber rifle into an occupied house in Daily City Thursday.

The shots narrowly missed hitting Mrs. Nicolas Dekker as she was standing at a kitchen sink at her Bepier street home, police said.

Arrested and charged with malicious mischief and firing a gun into an occupied home were Juan Douglas De Groot, 24, of 88 Vendome Street, and William Sidney Harmon, 20, of 84 Vendome Street.

Both men had been drinking at the De Groot house prior to the shooting, police allege.

Following receipt of the complaint, police dispatched six policemen to the scene to apprehend the pair.

They surrendered without incident, police said.

community, and said all other merchants would be willing to do so too.

Wilms and Chamber of Commerce President Frank Fava suggested the city set up a committee of businessmen to meet with planning commissioners, and work out modifications to the sign rules.

Frank Pokorny of Sunshine Health Shop said "I'll have to shell out $1500" to change his sign six inches to conform with the ordinance.

Jim Stanaway said the "new" law that prohibits signs on two sides of a building facing a corner, is unfair.

Clarence Larson, of Chapel of the Highlands, offered to serve on any committee that would be set up, and councilmen voted a six-month moratorium on enforcement of the sign law.

The moratorium is to allow a series of meetings to work out a liveable compromise, said Mayor Esser, and the time limit is to ensure that progress is pushed.

"Having a non-conforming sign myself, I'm in favor," said Councilman William Glang. The motion passed.

Earl Wilms was appointed committee chairman.

Early Education Plans Unfeasible in Millbrae

A program of early childhood education, outlined at Monday February 5 night's meeting of the Millbrae Board of Education by Dr. Rufus C. Clapp, was declared unfeasible at present since it provided only 55 days of study prior to applying for state funds to implement it. The meeting was held at the Loma Park School.

The district now has one of the few kindergartens in the area's public schools which accommodate children as young as three years and nine months.

The proposed program, which would allow kindergarten through third grade, would require restructuring of present programs, and involve principals of other staff members, as well as the community.

Superintendent Edward J. Muehlhausen explained that the district would be undergoing many of the same concerns it now faces, including staff evaluation, and uncertainty of funding from the state, and that the proposed plan should not be accomplished hastily.

Trustee Mrs. Doris M. Brown commented that she felt it premature to expect plans for the program to be completed so quickly. Trustee Dr. Larry Fester added, "Although this plan can't be done now, I hope the program will be given an early priority."

Dr. Gerald M. Poppers said, "Let's not be so eager to jump into this program, since I am not convinced that we cannot do this without more money."

Although board approval was given at the last meeting for the addition of a class for children with learning disabilities to be housed at Green Hills, in addition to that under way for some time at Meadows School, a new request for $6000, instead of the $2000 originally listed as its cost, was held over for additional consideration.

"We've been told, there N. Dimitre had several corrections and questions, so that this would not cost the district any more money," Poppers observed, "and it should be as if it were presented to us. I have no doubt, but the program is needed, but this discrepancy should be cleared up." This, too, was held over.

When the rules and regulations for classified employees was brought up, Trustee Theo-vested amount to $1,450,000. Warrants in the amount of $36,072 were approved.

A written notice from Millbrae Chapter 561, of the California School Employees' Association indicated that the elected officers for this year are: John Buchner, president; Robert Compagna, vice president; Mrs. Miti Dowett, secretary; Mrs. Fay Harrington, treasurer; and Truman Thornton, reporter. There are presently 74 members of the organization.

Manager John J. Lynch reported the interest earned or anticipated on investments from July through December 1972, over $33,000. Funds currently in-

Antismoker Law Asked For Millbrae

A law against smoking cigars, cigarettes, or pipes in public buildings was proposed last week by Millbrae City Councilman Barney Spera.

City Attorney Frank Gillio was instructed to draw up an ordinance, which may be the first such civic prohibition anywhere, and deliver it to the Council for a public hearing March 20.

"I want to conduct this hearing," said Mayor Bernard Esser, dragging a breath through his filter-tip. "Let's give the smokers a chance to speak. It ought to be fun. I might even have something to say."

While Mayor Esser puffed his cigarette, Councilman Spera, a non-smoker, and Councilman Harold Purpus, another non-smoker, agreed to narrow down the proposal to prohibit smoking only in "public meeting rooms, of city-owned buildings."

"Looking at the audience," Spera said, "and the number of long black cigars out there, I'm in trouble, but many citizens say to me that they do not come down here to the Council meetings because they can't tolerate the smoke."

"People have the right to breathe the fresh air," Spera said. "I'm not saying that smokers don't have the right to smoke, they have the right as they don't infringe on the right of other people to breathe the clean air."

"What I'm asking for, is an ordinance to prohibit smoking, of cigars, cigarettes, or pipes, in public buildings or private buildings that are open to the public."

Bruno Jail Deputy Is Suspended

The acting deputy chief of the San Francisco City Jail for men in San Bruno has been suspended for five days allegedly for not following directives.

San Francisco Sheriff Richard D. Hongisto said Friday the suspension of Acting Chief Deputy Roy Bengston began Thursday. Bengston, a 21-year veteran, said he and his attorney will appeal to the San Francisco Civil Service Commission.

Hongisto said, "I sent him (Bengston) three directives to improve sanitary conditions in the jail kitchen and to paint two filthy cells. The work wasn't done, so he was suspended."

Hongisto also denied that differing between himself and Bengston on how the 700-inmate jail should be run, had anything to do with the suspension.

Flu Fatal to S.S.F. Girl, 19

A 19-year-old South San Francisco girl who had been suffering from the flu last week was pronounced dead on arrival at the Koser Foundation hospital in South San Francisco after she suddenly had difficulty breathing at her home, the coroner's office reported.

She was Isabel Machado of 26 Lewis Avenue, who had been treated at the hospital on December 21 for a strep condition, and who had been taken to the hospital a second time last Saturday when she complained of chest and back pains.

On Tuesday, Coroner's Investigator Robert Jensen reported, an X-ray examination showed congestion of her lungs, and she complained of the flu.

Wednesday she awakened at 11:45 a.m., went to the kitchen for a soft drink and then started to watch television. At 11:55 a.m. her father, Manuel, reported, she began to have difficulty breathing. He gave her resuscitation until the arrival of an ambulance.

At 12:35 p.m. she was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Pilot Licenses Renewal Policy

Bay Area private pilots will have to start renewing their licenses every second year, according to new regulations of the Federal Aviation Administration.

The ruling includes a number of changes in pilot training, testing and certification, in the most sweeping modification of such regulations in decades.

New rules become effective November 1, but allow a year's time in which pilot applicants may choose to meet either the new rules, or the older regulations they have trained under.

Major change in the regulations, according to the FAA, is a requirement that private pilots and all other pilots who are not engaged in airline or other commercial operations, must submit to biennial flight checks, to keep their flying licenses valid.

Since the licensing procedure was first established, in the 1920s, a pilot's license has been valid forever, provided it was never suspended for violations, and the flyer maintained a "current medical examination." This required that private pilots pass a physical every two years, commercial pilots each year, and airline pilots every six months.

Commercial and airline pilots have since become subject to periodic skill checks, the FAA noted, and are thus not included in the new regulation.

Federal Air Regulations will also significantly upgrade requirements for flight instructors. At present, a private pilot with 200 hours of flight time, can be examined for, and win a flight instructor's license if he qualifies.

New rules would require that he obtain a commercial license, which includes recording 250 hours of flight time and stricter requirements than are met by private pilots, plus obtaining an instrument flight rating, and capability in both ground instruction and flight instruction. Instructors in multi-engine planes and helicopters, will also need a class rating, the FAA said.

Private pilots will still have to meet minimum of 40 hours of flying time, but with an increased amount of instruction from a certified flight instructor, with a requirement for longer cross-country flights than are now expected, and at least three hours of night flying.

In flight tests for private pilot applicants, the FAA said, emphasis will be placed on operations in airport traffic patterns and avoiding collisions, emergency operations, and instrument flight.

Under new rules for commercial pilots, the men and women who fly charters, air taxis, air ambulances, and other aircraft for hire, applicants will need instrument ratings, and flight time requirements are boosted to 250 from the present 200 hours, with increased training in dual instruction and training in complex aircraft.

Requirements for instrument flight ratings are also to be tightened, requiring demonstrated proficiency in three types of electronic navigational aids. There will also be repeat instrument flight proficiency checks, for pilots whose instrument ratings lapse.

Entirely new, said the FAA, is a requirement that student pilots who wish to fly solo, must get an instructor's endorsement at least every 90 days.

The FAA noted that the new requirements were based on proposals published last March, and upon 1983 comments from the public, which were received in response to those proposals. The agency also noted that the changes have been made "to enhance operational safety in the skies."

Emphasis in all flight testing, the FAA said, will be on "overall piloting proficiency in all flight operational areas."

Ryan Wants Explanation Of Carr Plan

Congressman Leo J. Ryan has demanded a clarification of statements made by former San Francisco Airport Director James K. Carr regarding the extension of two runways over Bayshore Freeway.

In a letter to San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto Ryan expressed disbelief that Carr "could make such a suggestion without even the courtesy of a conference with local officials or even a request of a reaction to his suggestion by letter."

"Since the comments and the suggestions made would have such a long-range and profound effect upon land planning in the vicinity of the airport," Ryan said, "I would like to have some clarification by those who have the authority to do so."

Carr indicated that the Airports Commission is considering extending runways 19 Left and 19 Right over the freeway. He said the plan called for the freeway to pass under the extensions, which would bridge over the freeway onto land the airport already owns.

Ryan told Alioto the proposal "precipitated a substantial amount of mail from constituents in San Mateo County," and asked that city officials have all the proposals on the proposed extension.

Arrest 3 for S.S.F. Burglary

Three teenage boys were arrested Feb. 6 on a charge of burglarizing the home of Martha Brown on Avalon Drive in South San Francisco.

Police received complaints of a group of boys prowling the backyards of the neighborhood. Investigating officers found some footprints in the dirt behind some houses, and followed them to one of the alleged culprits, a 17-year-old Belmont boy. The other two boys, 17 and 18, were arrested within a few hours.

Bruno Meet on Airport Growth

A meeting to marshal forces prior to a March 6 public hearing by the San Francisco Airport Commission concerning airport expansion is set for 7:30 p.m. February 15 at San Bruno City Hall.

San Bruno environmentalist Sylvia Gregory said the February 15 meeting is being held so "people most affected by airports and prepare to testify at the March 6 meeting." She said the commission's March 6 meeting

Valuable Coins

Stolen at Show

San Mateo Police Monday were investigating the theft of three pennies from the Hall of Flowers at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds Sunday afternoon.

The pennies were sort of special — one of them, a 1955 double die, is valued at $275. The other two — an 1857 and 1858 Flying Eagle — each were worth $8.50.

Crittenton Home Seeks Members

Hoping that women in northern San Mateo County communities will respond, the membership committee of Florence Crittenton Home and Services invites inquiry. It is prepared to mail out an informative brochure outlining the history and services given to girls in need, of all races and creeds.

Any woman wishing to have this brochure should write to the local area president, Mrs. Patti McClain, 2830 Medina Drive, San Bruno.

The Crittenton program has two major objectives: to guide the girls along a course which will eventually lead to practical and emotional self-sufficiency and independence from welfare aid; and to reduce the problems suffered by neglected babies, by training the girls in mothering skills and by counseling on adoption and foster care," Mrs. McClain said.

Crittenton goals are to encourage self-sufficient young women, capable mothers, and healthy, loved babies — and to prevent battered babies, school dropouts, repeated pregnancies and welfare-cycle repetitions," she said.

Groups of women in five Bay Area locations support the home, located at 836 Broderick Street, San Francisco, with varied fund-raising events, as well as community and home services.

Activities range from volunteering to serve a few hours a month in the Still Stylish Shop on California Street, San Francisco, to luncheons, auctions, Table trips, and other adopted events.

Active memberships are $6 annually; patron memberships, $10 annually. All donations are tax deductible. Newcomers are always welcome, Mrs. McClain said.

The next meeting will be held March 21, at 10:30 a.m., in the meeting room of Breuners-Serramonte. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Ethel Seiderman, supervisor of the infant day care center at the home.

P-TA FOUNDERS DAY program at M. Pauline Brown School, Daly City, at 7:30 p.m. February 15, will include not only presentation of annual Honorary Service Award, but student talent as well, including (left to right) Sam Anagnostou, Glen Frank, Amy Bevilacqua and Jackie Harvey. Filmed highlights of 1972 World Series also are to be featured.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Next Monday we will celebrate George Washington's birthday and what better way to celebrate a birthday than by baking a cake, or in this case a pie?

Along with the historical facts about our first president there are quite a few myths. One of the most enduring and endearing is the cutting down of the cherry tree. Did little George really chop down that cherry tree and then honestly admit the deed? Whether he did or not, it has become a tasty tradition to have cherry pie on his birthday and I'm more than willing to go along with this tradition.

CHERRY PIE

- 3 cups canned sour pitted cherries
- one-third cup canned cherry juice
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- one-fourth teaspoon almond extract
- 2 Tablespoons flour or tapioca
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 Tablespoon butter

Drain the cherries, reserving the juice. Next combine the three cups cherries, one-third cup juice, one cup sugar, one teaspoon lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoon almond extract, two tablespoons tapioca or flour and one-eighth teaspoon salt. If you wish you may add a bit of red food coloring to make a more colorful pie. Stir gently and pour into a pastry lined, unbaked pie pan. Dot with one tablespoon butter or margarine and cover with a top crust. Cut slots in crust to allow steam to escape. Bake in hot oven (450-degrees) for 10 minutes then reduce heat to 350-degrees and bake 25 minutes longer.

You don't have to restrict yourself to baking a pie to honor President Washington. Cherries are such a favorite with everyone you can use them in many different desserts. This next recipe makes a delicious treat and the red cherry sauce finishes it off with a bright splash of color.

CHERRY DELIGHT

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup flour
- 1 can red cherries, 303 size, drained
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 2 Tablespoons melted butter

Mix one cup sugar and one cup flour together. Add the canned cherries, draining and reserving the liquid. Dissolve the one teaspoon soda in the one-half cup cold water and stir into the flour, sugar and cherries. Lastly, add the two tablespoons melted butter.

Pour into buttered 8x8-inch pan and bake in 350-degree oven for one hour.

SAUCE

- 1 cup cherry juice
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 Tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 Tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Red food coloring

In saucepan combine the one cup sugar and one tablespoon cornstarch. Add the one cup juice (if necessary add enough water to make one cup of liquid) and cook over moderate heat stirring until mixture thickens. Add two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon vanilla and a few drops red food coloring. Cook about one minute. Set aside to cool, it thickens as it cools.

Top the cake with ice cream or whipped cream and spoon sauce over top.

CORRECTION: In last week's recipe for Tahitian Style Meat Balls, the amount of pineapple syrup called for in the Sweet-Sour Sauce is one-half cup.

Terra Nova Topics

By DENISE BARR

For the second year, Terra Nova has enacted arena scheduling for mid-term class changes. All of the social science and English classes offered to juniors and seniors are only one semester courses. At the end of the semester, another class has to be found to take the place of the course that has ended. Instead of having a flood of students beating down the counselor's doors, students are to make their own new schedules.

A few weeks ago, everyone who needed to change their schedule went to the multi-use room during an English or social science class. The department heads were all present, along with the counselors. A few days earlier, students had been given a list of classes, teachers, and periods of all courses taught. They were to make up their new schedule, using that information. At the time, it was the students' responsibility to check out of each class he had to drop and check into each new class. This was done with drop and enter cards submitted and taken out of the respective class at the department center. A teacher's signature was required for a student to drop and/or take a class.

The majority of students, teachers, and counselors like this system of rescheduling. Usually, a student is able to get the class he wants with the teacher and the period he wants. But there are also problems. Students often have to rearrange their entire schedule because of one semester-long class. Some people feel the arena is a madhouse. This year almost everything went very smoothly.

EVERYONE is still talking about the senior snow trip. The chaperones were great, because they didn't bug anyone. But everyone stayed under control. The main activities for the weekend were either skiing on the Heavenly Valley slopes or tobogganing on Beehive Hill. The only major casualty of the weekend was suffered by senior class advisor Gary D. Muey. Ten minutes after he arrived at the hotel, he slipped on some ice and broke his ankle. He spent Friday night and Saturday in the hospital.

AFTER HAVING his Christmas Dance cancelled because of poor participation, the junior class is selling tickets for the Junior Prom, themed, "Dancing in the Moonlight." The Prom will be held at the Airport Marina on March 23. Junior class advisor Mrs. Eileen Pitts said, "If you juniors don't sell enough tickets for your Prom, your Senior Ball will be held in my garage."

TERRA NOVA seems to have recovered somewhat from the flu siege that was never declared an epidemic. Attendance is still on the rise, but there are still a lot of kids out-

News About... Cub, Boy Scouts

Scouts from this area who belong to the Order of the Arrow, national brotherhood of honor campers, will attend the biennial national conference to be held next August in California.

The Pomponio Lodge of the San Mateo Council, Boy Scouts of America, expects to have 15 delegates at the conference, according to Lodge Chief Robert Greess of San Carlos.

The conference will be held at the University of California at Santa Barbara from August 21 to 24. This is the first time that the national conference has been held on the West coast.

"When the local Scouts go to the conference, they will join about 4,000 other delegates who will take part in a program that has been created and administered by a group of about 40 young men all under the age of 21," Greess said.

The lodge chief also announced that the Order of the Arrow will provide service corps members for the 1973 National Scout Jamboree to be held at Farragut State Park, Idaho, on August 1-7, and Moqui State Park, Pa., on August 3-9. The service corps will consist of 403 members at each site. Applications for the jamboree service corps are available at the San Mateo County Council service center.

First, second and third place winners: Christopher Chiappari, Paul Moran, Christopher Luppens. The trophy will be given out at the Blue and Gold dinner this month.

Boy Scout Troop No. 84 of Daly City, made up of 37 members and led by Scoutmaster Peter Konstan, went on its campout at Thornton Beach State Park. Led by Thornton Beach State Park Ranger Don Scott and the troop's resident geologist Neil Fahy, the troop went on a hike, along the San Andreas Fault as the two experts conducted a session in the field on the types of fossils found along the beach and a general introduction to the geological formation of the area along the shoreline and around the cliffs in that area.

Under the leadership of Ranger Scott the troop began and completed a community service project on conservation and soil erosion on the hills along the state park. The troop's next campout will be the annual fun event of the year: the snow trip to Murphy's.

Serramonte High-lites

Judging from information supplied by Serramonte High School's cafeteria manager, Mrs. Mary Ann Heissenbuttel, students can buy nutritious good tasting meals at the school.

Planning for all the school cafeterias in the Jefferson High School District is done centrally by a district supervisor, who sees that all menus meet nutritional and state requirements. The Type A hot lunch consists of 3 ounces of protein, 1 1/4 cups of fruit or vegetable, bread and butter, and 1-3/4 qt. milk. There is also a Type A box lunch which contains a cheeseburger, potato salad, an orange juice bar, a peanut butter cookie and 1-3/4 qt. milk.

Usually available on the ala carte menu are such items as spaghetti, burritos, enchiladas, corn dogs, fish squares, pizza. Also available are salted French fries, hot French bread and butter, and assorted desserts.

Along with all the hot foods, sandwiches of many varieties are available at the snack bar and the dairy bar features milk shakes, ice cream products, chips, and packaged bakery goods. A brunch program was initiated at Serramonte when it opened. This means that students may buy donuts, hot chocolate, coffee, milk and orange juice each morning.

This food operation is by a staff of four full-time employees, two part-time employees, and during hours of service, the help of two of the students from the school's FEAST program.

Tax Bill to Aid Senior Citizens

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-Daly City) has introduced a bill to allow senior citizens further property tax assistance.

Under the present law, any person receiving Old Age Security benefits or other public relief is ineligible for Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance.

Papan's bill, co-authored by 63 assemblymen and one state senator, amends the current Revenue and Taxation Code eliminating this prohibition.

"Many senior citizens cannot get by on their income from public relief programs. Allowing them to apply for Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance is a more equitable proposal," Papan said.

County Beauty Pageant Passes Into History

By LINWOOD DAY

The Miss San Mateo County Beauty Pageant, which in 1972-73 years has compiled the finest record in the state, and which for the past two years in a row has won the Miss California crown, is no more.

It succumbed to financial pressures, official inertia, and diminishing membership last week, it was learned last week.

The State Miss California organization, which for two years has sent the San Mateo County winner as its representative in the Miss America contest, reluctantly accepted the inevitable, a pageant spokesman said, and has assigned pageant charters to Redwood City and South San Francisco.

A third charter is held by Pacifica, which has placed in the top ten in its several years of operation, but has never won a top spot.

The 15-year record of the Miss San Mateo County Pageant may never be excelled in an equal period of time. In 15 years, the San Mateo entrant has placed in the top ten or finalist competition 11 times. It has seven times placed in the top four.

Its two winners match Los Angeles and Sacramento: no delegation has won more; it twice has been first runner up, twice second runner up, and once third runner up. It also captured two Miss Congeniality trophies. Presently, its 1972-73 entrant, Dianne Wagner of Daly City, is the state beauty queen. Both she and the former Carolyn Stoner of Belmont were double winners in the state contest, capturing firsts in both talent and beauty divisions.

Three runners up, Karen Jensen, Susan Damante and Georgina Hillery have won national attention as television models, and two, Karen and Susan, have participated in television series or shows, and are presently working in the Hollywood scene.

If the picture was glamorous, it was a different story behind the scenes.

According to pageant personnel, as success grew here and statewide support at home dwindled until pageant people were yearly reaching into their pockets to pay the bills.

During the past year, according to Mrs. Robert (Jan) Kestler, the pageant board has quietly approached all of the possible sources to attempt to get assistance.

It has been turned down by the county supervisors, the county fair board, the county convention bureau, the Council of Mayors, a majority of the Chambers of Commerce, and several service clubs.

Mrs. Kestler, business manager of the pageant, reported that at a meeting a year ago with the supervisors, Mrs. Jean Foster of Pacifica discussed possibly setting up a joint panel to explore county sponsorship.

But within a day, things changed. The meeting with the supervisors was called illegal, and from then on pageant officials could not get by the secretaries in an attempt to reach supervisors. Mrs. Kestler said.

The pageant group then approached the San Mateo County Fair Association, she said, and got no place. They got the impression, she said, that the Fair Association Board was satisfied with its Dream Girl Contest.

Next, the pageant group approached the newly organized County Convention Bureau, which is supported by the hotel tax.

The Convention Bureau people talked about getting the State Pageant to move here from Santa Cruz, Mrs. Kestler says.

"We talked to them just before going to Atlantic City for the Miss America Contest last fall."

We talked to Jim Jones, he was going to arrange a meeting with the president of the Convention Bureau. But it never happened. This January he sent a letter. The best he could do was to buy us a trophy, he wrote.

The more than 40 eager supporters who had developed the first shows more than a dozen years ago as members and wives of the San Mateo Junior Chamber of Commerce had dwindled to seven—not enough to fill the 12-man board.

The Pageant was kept alive last year primarily as a memorial to the late Frank Rochex of San Mateo who had until his death been the founding father and sparkplug of the local pageant.

Big, at year's end, the reaction of even service clubs indicated the money just wasn't there in this county for the San Mateo pageant.

Left to carry the load, Mrs. Kestler said, were two couples: Bob and Louis Masciola and the Kestlers, and Louise Gummia, Joan Ward and Fred Williams.

A key long-term director, Lyle Miller, who had arranged and directed the elaborate choreography, this year moved to San Jose.

The Pageant cost about $7,000 a year to put on. It gave school-

Judge Won't Drop Suit

Presiding Superior Court Judge G. Brooks Ice has declined to dismiss a $100,000 suit brought by a Foster City man who claims he was denied service at Charley Brown's restaurant in Burlingame after waiting more than two hours for a table.

Judge Ice denied a demurrer in court Tuesday, giving attorneys for the restaurant 30 days in which to answer the complaint filed on behalf of Roland Brown, a banker, last November.

The suit contends that Brown took eight relatives to the restaurant last August 26 for dinner and, after a wait of two hours, was informed that it would be necessary to seat the party at two tables. In the meantime, the suit contends, a total of 34 persons who arrived after the Brown party were seated for dinner. Brown became so irritated that he smashed a cocktail glass in the restaurant fireplace, the complaint says, and then was informed by the maitre d' Peter Briggs, that his party would not be served and would have to leave.

Pete Brallier As 'Cupid' For Valentine Day Party

Fun-lovin' Pete Brallier, who owns the Whiskey Hill in downtown Burlingame, is always planning a party. The next major celebration is Valentine's Day, and Pete couldn't allow it to go by without a gathering of sorts. So come on down to Whiskey Hill Wednesday night for the free buffet and dance to the sounds of Bishop. It's going to be a "sweetheart" of a party. Sunday night seems to be "family night" at Scotty Campbell's, a prestige Redwood City restaurant which is family owned and operated. The menu offers an impressive selection of entrees, including steaks, seafood, chicken and prime ribs of beef. Boudier's Mahi Mahi Almondine (a favorite fish of the islands) displays the chef's skillful versatility. Catering as it does to the educated palates of its stream of well-traveled guests, Scotty Campbell strikes a happy medium in its cuisine. Lido Landi, general manager of Martinelli's Steak Pit in Millbrae, has a great idea! Just inside the entrance he displays the different cuts of steak that are available. While having a before-dinner cocktail, guests consider just which cut they should order.

Finocchio's Bobby D'Castro Crowd Pleaser

A real crowd pleaser in the current revue at Finocchio's, where the world's greatest female impersonators present four shows nightly, is Bobby D'Castro's great take-off of the late Carmen Miranda. An amazing duplication of the late Brazilian star's costumes, even to the giant head-piece laden with bananas and other fruit, is showcased in a melange of color. You hear concert hall realism in the cocktail lounge at the Short Tail in Palo Alto. Valerian, the gifted pianist who entertains nightly, plays a $7,000 Mason and Hamlin. It is a rare, handcrafted grand which has the same scale structure as when it was originally made 50 years ago. It's a magnificent instrument and Valerian is a master who knows how to get the most out of it. Enrico Romano, owner and operator of Romano's Italian restaurant, located in picturesque Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, is more than a pizza maker. He also supervises the preparation of all Italian family-style dinners which his establishment serves. Enrico spends hours each day in his kitchen preparing special sauces and dishes which have become so popular among his regular clientele.

Davey's Locker A Favorite Stop

Although several new dinner items have been introduced on the menu at Davey's Locker, corner of Second Avenue and South Ellisworth (two blocks east of El Camino), a continued favorite seems to be Davey's Pan Roasts. Described as the "Aristocrat of All Steaks," this is a selection of oyster, shrimp or a combination of both. Also served with salad, potatoes, vegetables and coffee. Less hearty eaters should order Davey's oyster stew which is almost a meat in itself. Menus are designed especially for your special parties and banquets at the Villa Hotel. Groups up to 500 persons can be accommodated. There are eight meeting rooms offering complete, modern equipment. Family dining is available in the Villa Coffee House, which is open 24 hours a day featuring daily specials. For a spirited uplift, we suggest the Villa Lounge, where the Charlie Blackwell Trio provides danceable sounds from 9 p.m. nightly. Out-of-towners respond warmly to the Villa Hotel's hospitality and readily understand why San Mateo residents regard this as one of their favorite haunts. High society has found the Leaning Tower, in South San Francisco. Co-owner Joe Ercoli reports that several prominent Hillsborough residents have entertained here. And good reason: the cuisine is exceptional and there are two well-appointed banquet rooms.

'Unwind' At Vince's Restaurant

A great place to unwind after a long day at the office or a session of shopping is the friendly cocktail lounge at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant in San Mateo. The drinks are potent, and hors d'oeuvres for snacking are served from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. nightly. The vast experience of the personnel throughout this restaurant is just one of the many reasons behind the excellent service and hospitality extended to patrons. The enterprising Vince Likata also invites you to visit the Seafood Depot located just next door. Those oven-baked sandwiches at Ken's House of Pancakes in Millbrae are a smashing success. Chose from: pastrami, beef or ham, sliced thin and piled high in a large French roll, then topped in an oven. For an extra treat, ask for Monterey Jack cheese on it; an extra cost. Carl Strattan is the inquired chef who prepares these lunch goodies. Robert T. Culvin Northern California Operations Manager for McDonald's restaurants, hosted a dinner meeting for other executives of the big, national restaurant chain in the V.I.P. Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco. The execs feasted on Peach Beef Wellington — a house specialty — topped off with flaming French Prune for dessert.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Moonraker Restaurant For Oceanside Dining

At The Moonraker, a beautiful restaurant located on the water's edge at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, one is reminded of that romantic era when Clipper ships unfurled their topmost sails, sometimes carried in light winds, which was called the Moonraker. Here, ships' wheels, lanterns, binnies and life rings are among the accoutrements that establish the atmospheric nautical charm. The Continental cuisine is equal to the beauty of the interior. You may select from the many a la carte items which include an array of appetizers, salads, soup, chef's specialties, entrees and desserts. Every dining room nicely is observed. Visible through the picture windows is the broad horizon of the Pacific Ocean with its sometimes calm, sometimes turbulent waves rushing to shore, below. Even in the intimate and charming bar-lounge, where Don Kelly presides at the organ on an elevated platform, guests have a water-side view. You can eat your way around the clock at Nick's Restaurant and Lounge, located across the street. Breakfast offers a variety of selections, with service from 10 a.m. Luncheon can be simple or elaborate, with numerous suggestions from which to choose. The evening meal consists basically of deluxe dinners, plus several daily specials. You may have difficulty choosing an entree; there is a fine variety. In the adjoining bar-lounge (where the Steve Romano Combo plays for dancing Wednesday through Sunday nights), the warmth and hospitality of the efficient staff is also extended. Nick's wine card is thorough and thoughtfully selected from California and foreign cellars. All in all, Nick Gust's Rockaway Beach restaurants are most sought-out and raved about, and we feel you, too, should enjoy their many advantages.

DAZED ATTENDANT — The sign reads "Complimentary Attendant Parking for The Fisherman," but when Mike Boardman landed in the parking lot in his helicopter, wow — He handed the keys to his $30,000 Enstrom chopper to the pretty attendant, and hopped in to dinner. Boardman is marketing manager for D & H Enterprises Inc. at San Carlos Airports, which sells the Enstrom chopper, a company owned by famed attorney F. Lee Bailey. Boardman, who is teaching Johnny Carson to fly, is also instructing restaurant manager Richard Patane, who may buy one of the birds. You can reach the Fisherman by land, sea and air.

Millbrae Captures Relays

For members of the Millbrae Lions Track Club, Saturday night in Oakland will not be soon forgotten.

And Skyline competitors Bob Waters and Serranotte High's Ike Allmand might have a special place in their athletic hearts for the indoor invitational, too.

The Lions won two women's relay events, taking the 4x200 relay with a 1:46.8 clocking on the slick running of Sandy Rand, Cathy Sulinski, Cathy Hardeman and Ginger Lewis, and the girls 13-under 4x160 event with the foursome of Karen Elmore, Laurie Wilson, Yolandia Nash and Denise Rogers. In the latter event, the Lions' time of 1:17.4 was more than three seconds ahead of the runner-up Orinda TC.

Waters easily captured the high school shot put with a toss of 54-4 1/2, while Allmand sped to victory in the high school 50-meter low hurdles, clocking

Pads Alone in First

By STEVE JOHNSON
Post Correspondent

Serra High's basketball team pulled to within one win of a dream Friday night.

The Padres, before another packed house, knocked off visiting St. Ignatius 41-35 in a physical battle so intense it practically needed a cease-fire to end hostilities.

The win, Serra's seventh straight in the West Catholic Athletic League, sets up today's match with defending WCAL and CCS champ Sacred Heart as a crucial tie to end crucials.

If the Padres take that one, it will mean their first undisputed round robin basketball title in history — and more importantly the advantage point going into the playoffs which would mean Serra would have to be beaten twice for elimination.

Senior guard Joe Berriatua turned in the key play for the Padres with 14 seconds left in the third quarter. With Serra up by four points, Wildcat guard Tom Portman got trapped by John Caselli and Buzz Harnett on the sideline just past the midcourt line.

Caselli tipped the ball away. Berriatua picked it up on the way to St's basket, and scored an easy layup to give Serra an important six-point lead.

That equalled the biggest lead anybody had all night, and enabled the Padres to use up all the time they wanted in the last period with a comfortable pad to fall back on just in case.

The closest the Wildcats got was the final six, but the situation was never really safe until Caselli put in two free throws off a pressurized one-and-one chance with 36 seconds to go for an eight point lead.

Serra had to come from a four point deficit at halftime to overtake the fired-up Cats, who rode a three-game winning streak of their own into the contest.

Led by Portman, the Wildcats went inside on the Padres' man-to-man defense as well as anybody has all season. "We adjusted," said Serra coach Jim Brovelli, "and they didn't get inside the second half. We forced them to shoot outside, and that's when they went cold."

And when St went cold, Serra took control. Portman opened the third quarter scoring with a drive, but when the Padre defense tightened, the Padre offense ran off nine consecutive points to roar to a 36-22 lead.

The Wildcats, who only got four third period points, didn't get a fourth quarter score until 2:06 remained on two free throws by Eddie Silva.

TURNOVERS ALMOST HURT

Outlasts Cap

By DAN BERTELOTTI
Post Correspondent

Turnovers can be the great equalizer when it comes to basketball.

Those coaches' nightmares almost did in Mills High Friday against Capuchino, before a screaming standing-room-only crowd in San Bruno, but the Vikes held their composure long enough for a rugged 70-63 win.

Mills committed 17 turnovers in the second half alone to allow the Mustangs to get back into a ball game that should have long since been won.

Those turnovers weren't committed by subs either, but by the first team.

Yes, this is the same Mills team that has won 22 straight MPL league games. Every good team plays some lousy games and the Vikes have played theirs.

The first half went as expected, with Mills hitting 10 of their first 11 shots for a 22-12 lead. But even with that lead, Mills wasn't playing well. Four straight errors at the end of the quarter allowed Cap to close to within 10.

The Vikings ran their lead to 41-24 at half. With 2:00 left in the third stanza they were up by 21. The Mustangs then ran off 11-2 rally, which brought them to 33-41 entering the final eight minutes.

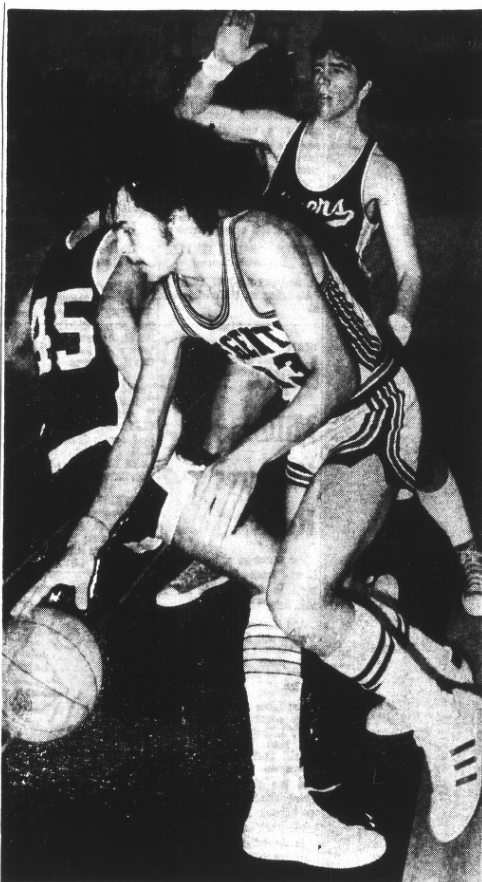

Soon it appeared that Mills was just sitting on its lead, making errors galore (three in a row without taking the ball out of bounds at one point). Cap closed in. The Tungs got within three with 5:30 left at 56-53 on a Mike Galvin field goal. But Mills ran off eight straight to repel the threat.

The play under both buckets was rough, to say the least. A total of 41 fouls were called. Both teams had field days from the charity stripe. Mills hit on 24 of 29 including 13 of 14 in the first half. Cap wasn't far behind making 19 of 25.

At the end, Cap's big boys, Mike Slotnick and Dan Ross had fouled out and all three of Mills' redwoods had four fouls.

The Mustangs' three-guard offense again contributed most of their offense. Frank Denucci and Pete Santora both had 17 and Galvin had 18.

The Vikings' front line was responsible for 48 lallies. Tom MacKenzie had 25, Bruce DeFenice 13 and Don Weaver 10. Mills is now 11-0 and will be trying for their second straight win Friday against Crestmore. Cap then to 3-7 with Burlingame and Hillsdale to come.

SERRAMONTE'S Tim Gannon finds the party to the basket blocked by Terra Nova's John Solaman and Ross Compton. Gannon didn't get the bucket, but he did draw the foul in last week's action.

Padres Shooting for First WCAL Crown

By STEVE JOHNSON
Times Correspondent

San Francisco's ancient Kezar Pavilion hasn't been a place of happiness for Serra High's basketball team.

Yet that will be the scene tomorrow night at 8 p.m. when the Padres go for their first-ever undisputed round robin title against defending West Catholic and Central Coast champ Sacred Heart.

Serra (8-2) holds a one-game lead (with two to go) over the Irish (7-3). The Padres come off a big 41-35 win over suburban St. Ignatius Friday night, while SH was beaten at Mitty 66-61.

The Padres, winners of seven straight in the WCAL, have had crucials at Kezar (located adjacent to the east end of the stadium) before.

None have turned out successfully. In 1970, Serra was knocked out of the WCAL playoffs there with an overtime loss to St. Ignatius. And the last two years, the Padres have been thoroughly thrashed by the Irish on the same court.

Le Pacini Top Baseball Player Visits

It isn't often that a major league baseball player shows up at a high school gym as a spectator of a lightweight basketball game. Unless the player is Rich Morales of the White Sox and the home gym is Terra Nova's, in which case it makes sense because 1) Morales has been working out with the Terra Nova varsity baseball team now under the tutelage of Marty Coil, Morales' old classmate 2) Pacifica is still Morales' home town (despite the charge in Baseball Register that Morales was born in San Francisco), and little-known fact, Terra Nova is Rich's alma mater — at least partially.

Yes, it's true. Daily City fans. Even though Morales is claimed by Westmore, where he did spend most of his prep career, it was Terra Nova from whence he graduated in 1962, having spent just enough time — one semester — to qualify as a member of TN's first graduating class.

WHEN MORALES graduated, Coil was an aspiring sophomore out for the Tiger varsity baseball team, and now that he's head baseball man at Terra Nova, Morales kills three curves with one swing, as it were, by getting in shape with the Tigers, cutting up old touches with Coil and rooting for one of his two old schools.

Morales, who has been working out with the Tigers on Tuesdays and Thursdays and with the Giants on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays (there is no trade in the wind, just a courtesy extended by the Giants, as it has also been to Hal Lanier and Jack Hiatt, who have also joined unofficial Tiger workouts), thinks the White Sox will win the American League pennant this year. And he doesn't say that out of loyalty. He sincerely means it.

"We gave 'em a run last year," says Morales, "without an outfield defense or Bill Melton (who had led the AL the year before in homers). This year, hopefully, Melton will be back as good as new from his back injury, and Ken Henderson will cure our outfield defensive problems."

Morales makes some good points. The White scored a lot of runs last year without Melton and Henderson is, as Morales puts it, one helluva defensive center fielder.

"People keep talking about how Henderson is going to help us with his bat," adds Morales, "but frankly, especially if Melton comes all the way back, we don't need Henderson's bat nearly as much as we need his glove. Any hitting he does will be frosting on the cake. If he hits .250 and plays a consistent center field, he's going to help us tremendously."

Morales concedes that the White Sox did give up a solid pitcher in Tom Bradley, but also points out that the other player the Sox got in the trade, Steve Stone, has plenty of stuff and could take Bradley's place, and the other White Sox trades have given the team more speed — something else which they have also lacked in recent years — and extra strength all the way around; perhaps enough to make up for the loss of one around; perhaps enough to make up for the loss of one solid starting pitcher.

"EVERY TRADE the Sox have made in the past couple of years has helped the team," says Morales, who concedes that the acquisition of Cleveland infielder Eddie Leon was a good one, a prospect which makes top utility infielder Rich Morales shake his head and mutter, "I don't know where that leaves Morales."

As a certain sports columnist pointed out to him, it probably leaves him in a very good position, because the stronger a team is, the better chance it has to win the pennant, and potential pennant winners hang on to grizzled vets like Morales who won't choke up in the frenzy of a pennant race.

Morales notes another interesting aspect of the Giants-White Sox trade. Because of the American League experiment with designated pinch-hitters, it was a break for Tom Bradley and Stone. Stone, you may remember, is a lefty, one of baseball's worst hitters. He will no longer have to worry about hitting. And Bradley, says Morales, "Swins the bat a little better." Thus, Bradley's batting talents aren't going to waste in the NL.

One thing is for sure. If a last year's hero of the White Sox, No Outfielder, ever, the White Sox will run them by a Chicago sportswriter's word, "they were so good they looked up one day and saw an outfielder's position and decided to let Tom McCraw in center, and the White Sox were in the NL."

As the writer said, there was no hub in left, no arm in center, and no neck in right.

WERE RELIEVED to know that at least one other sports columnist in the country agrees with us that Roberto Clemente shouldn't be prematurely enshrined in the Hall of Fame. He is Sporting News' baseball expert Bob Brueg, who was, incidentally, personally, extremely fond of Clemente.

Brueg pointed out in his column, as we did, that the case of Lou Gehrig's early entry to the Hall doesn't represent a true precedent for several reasons, but primarily because, "Gehrig just had received his death sentence from his doctors. . . Clemente can't walk in the garden and smell the roses or, more pertinently, take a bow . . . at Cooperstown . . . so the way I see it, to steamroller Roberto into the Hall of Fame now is really a disservice to the proud person who liked to feel that he was best in life, not in death."

49ers Ink Jones

Former South San Francisco High School star Greg Jones has been signed by the San Francisco 49ers as a free agent.

Forty-niner publicist George McFadden stated yesterday that Jones would be at the club's annual Winter Rookie camp, to be held February 16-18 at their Redwood City training camp.

Jones played running back two years for the Buffalo Bills behind O. J. Simpson before being cut just before the start of the 1972 regular season.

The 201-pound Jones gained 164 yards in two seasons in the NFL and caught 24 passes for an additional 202 yards. Despite his limited offensive activity, Greg was rated as an excellent blocker by the Bills' coaching staff.

Jones, who will be 25 years old Monday, is the second leading ground gainer in UCLA history and was an NCAA Scholarship winner.

He currently makes his home in Burlingame with his wife, Theresa, and works at H.S. Crocker in South San Francisco.

The 49ers also signed three other free agents, including former halfback Bill Tucker. Tucker was traded to the Chicago Bears, who waived him before the start of last season.

The other two agents are Lawrence Bryce, former San Jose State running back who was one of the last 49er cuts last year, and Willie Young, a 262-pound offensive tackle who is a refugee from the Canadian Football League.

The four free agents will be joined by the 49ers' 15 draft choices at the rookie camp. John Mitchell, a seventh round pick, has been excused because of prior commitments.

Expect Election for Council Seat in S.S.F.

By JACK BIK

To most observers of the South San Francisco political situation, it appeared almost certain that the city would have to go to a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Gordon Boblitt January 30.

There appeared to be no way that the present councilmen could come to an agreement on any person for the appointment. Up until the time of Boblitt's death, the council was split two to three. Boblitt's death cut the majority down by one, and the council is now split an even two to two. Whoever wins the fifth seat will thus determine who the new council majority will be.

The special election would be more than a vote to fill one seat on the city council. It would be a plebiscite on whether the citizenry approves of the new direction taken by Mayor Frank Mammimi, Councilman Warren Steinkamp and Boblitt — or agrees with the running criticism of the city's policies given by Councilmen Pat Ahern and Bill Borba. Ahern and Borba are former mayors and part of the former council majority.

In such an election, the major issue would not doubt be the city's highly controversial contract with the private VTN engineering firm. When the contract was signed last June, six engineering positions were eliminated. That was followed by a series of employees resigning in dissatisfaction, retiring prematurely or just leaving with no reason given. Since June, 40 have resigned, for all reasons, including elimination of jobs, out of over 300 city employees.

Also at stake probably is the fate of City Manager Gale Dreishach.

In the event of a special election, the city employees can be expected to be one of the most cohesive groups of voters — as well as election workers — in the city.

News Analysis

According to City Atty. John Neuman, the councilmen will decide on Saturday afternoon whether to call a special election for the vacancy under the ambiguously worded State Election Code provision. However, if they fail to make an appointment by March 1, they have no choice — they must set an election 68 to 89 days following the earliest possible publication of notice.

City Clerk Arthur Rodondi estimates the cost of an election at $700 — $1000 higher than the last city election. The reason for the increase is increased voter registration, from 17,846 to almost 20,000, and increased mailing rates, from 2.8 to 3.5 cents. With the likeliest candidates for the new vacancy are difficult to say at this time. Boblitt's death was so sudden that most local political elements still have not formulated any plans. Mammimi and Steinkamp at first refused to discuss it. It was reportedly Mammimi's decision to delay the council's discussion of the appointment to last Monday because he did not wish to discuss it even in a closed executive session last week.

Boblitt's election marked the first time that a councilman of the Westborough area — a semi-detached but fast growing neighborhood of 6870 people — had won a city council seat. Boblitt's election — after a previous unsuccessful try — came on the heels of a series of disputes over service station zoning and the design of Westborough Boulevard extension. Westborough can thus be expected to make an attempt to insure its continued representation on the council.

Grief-stricken Beverly Boblitt, the councilman's widow, reports that she was asked by several people about accepting a possible appointment to fill out her husband's term.

Donald F. Gamma, of Cork Place, has been mentioned by several local political leaders as one of the likeliest candidates from the Westborough area. He heads the West Park Homeowners Association and formerly headed the Serra Highlands Homeowners Association. He is also on the planning commission. Wesley Slade, another Westborough resident on the planning commission, has also been mentioned. He has been active in school affairs. Although South San Francisco appears to have no overt racial problem, the fact that Slade is a black would undoubtedly have some influence on his candidacy — one way or the other.

Another minority member mentioned is Tony Montoya, who has been prominent in the Mexican-American community. He is probably South San Francisco's largest minority group. A Skyline College staff member, he has been president of the San Jose Graduate Westview Terraces Improvement Club. He has run for the council before. Richard A. Battaglia of Valente Drive is being urged for the seat by some supporters. He became a cause celebre when he was appointed to the personnel commission, then fired after three months by the then council majority which included Ahern and Borba. Battaglia is now back on the personnel commission, as a result in the switch in the council majority. School Trustee Leo Padreddi has been reported wondering whether to run for re-election to the board or for city council. With no problem now of the two elections being combined, he may possibly run for both. The candidate who appears to be most favored by Ahern and Borba is 26-year-old Terry J. Mirri, who came in a close fourth in last year's city election. Out of a field of seven candidates for three posts, he received 4322 votes, trailing winning candidate Warren Steinkamp by 173 votes. Mirri is a management trainee, a recent political science graduate from the University of San Francisco, and a law school student.

It was at that election that Boblitt moved out veteran incumbent Councilman Frank Bertucci who trailed in fifth place with 3535 votes. Mammimi and Steinkamp, running for re-election on a ticket with Boblitt, won with 4929 and 4495 votes respectively. Bertucci, with Borba and Ahern, made up a council majority which — in one form or another — had dominated South San Francisco politics for many years. Boblitt's election permitted Mammimi and Steinkamp to be converted from a frustrated minority to a slim but firm majority which was able to call all the shots until Boblitt's death.

Prisoners Receive Pay

San Mateo County jail prisoners serving at the honor camp near La Honda and at the work furlough facility in Redwood City can be utilized on a voluntary basis to participate in public works projects.

Job Training For Welfare Recipients

Use of County Health and Welfare Department education and training funds to permit some welfare recipients to participate in outside training programs to prepare them for jobs and take them off welfare was approved Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

Richard Lamb, head of the vocational services division of the department, recommended allocation of the funds from the department's $156,000 education and training budget, stating it would permit 200 persons on aid to families with dependent children and aid to the totally disabled to take training under the Regional Training Program, an area junior colleges and at the Opportunities Industrial Center West.

The cost, Lamb said, would average $20 per month per person for a period of six months. In approving the allocation, the board requested County Manager M.D. Tashers to submit a complete report on the county's total program for use of education and training funds.

Shuman, Agnew

Park T. Dingwell, Stephen K. Jones and Bruce E. Van Alstyne have been elected to the board of directors of Shuman, Agnew & Company, Inc., investment bankers. Dingwell, a Hillsborough resident, and Jones, of Diablo, are vice presidents in the firm's head office in San Francisco. Van Alstyne, who lives in San Carlos, is vice president and manager of the Menlo Park office.

Saga

Sage Administrative Corporation of Menlo Park, and Pet Inc., of St. Louis, announced that an agreement has been reached for Saga to purchase certain assets and all of the operations of Schrafft's business feeding unit from Pet. The sale does not include Schrafft's public restaurant, food distribution center, ice cream, motor units, or frozen food businesses.

James M. Medaneich has been appointed director of business development for Fluor Australia Pty. Limited, Melbourne. He was recently transferred from Fluor Utah, Inc., San Mateo, where he had been in the Business Development Division.

Marc Brieger, of Bellevue Avenue, San Mateo, will officially retire March 1 from Wells Fargo Bank. Brieger, in recent years a field auditor, started his career in 1924 as a messenger boy with the Union Trust office in San Francisco.

Supervisors decreed last week, not only are prisoners authorized to work in county areas, but also in city and state areas, such as public beaches and parks.

The board's action formally authorized what has been in practice for some time, extending prisoner work at county facilities to city and state, if the occasion demands.

Prisoners, who participate in the work project are paid 30 cents a day for an eight-hour day, a maximum decreed by state law. According to Sheriff's Captain Donald J. Hartnett, chief of the sheriff's detention facilities, said that payment isn't mandatory, and that San Mateo County is one of only two or three counties in the state which pay prisoners for work projects.

"It may not be much," Hartnett said, "but for the prisoner who has no resources it means candy and cigarettes, or payment for transportation home when he is released."

Prisoners are utilized at the county's parks and beaches, as well as maintaining the work furlough and honor camp facilities and in kitchen duties at the two facilities and the county jail.

Although state law provides for use of prisoners in painting of public buildings, they have not been utilized in that capacity in San Mateo County outside of the two minimum security facilities.

Need of Summer Jobs for Youth

An urgent need to provide summer vacation jobs for minority youth was stressed at a recent community organization meeting held at the King Center in San Mateo. The outback in federal funds for work programs promoted by the Community Service, sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity, will have serious impact, it was agreed. About 50 residents, mainly from the city's minority district attended. San Mateo city and county businessmen are being urged to help provide constructive work opportunities for youth to learn and earn, according to Willie Williams, who helped conduct the organizational session, together with Roger Winston. Williams is past chairman of the city Human Relations Commission and Winston is the director of the high school district's community relations department. Winston is now running for the San Mateo City Council.

Communication: getting minority residents involved in community needs; youth involvement in community activities, and social-political involvement were stressed.

Williams said that the communications thrust will be directed through the Cox Broadcasting System and TVS Cable TV which recently signed a merger. Two studios, one in San Francisco and one in Los Angeles, will give blacks, Chicanos and Asian-Americans a voice to be heard.

To further promote community communications, a bulletin newspaper will be produced for the North Central district. It will keep the area posted on local news.

The aim is to stimulate minority youth's interest in politics. Within three weeks, Williams said a "rap session" will be set up for all segments of city youth. Particular emphasis will be made on bringing in Asian students, and other youth, to develop their leadership potential.

Williams said in regard to the summer job program, "People realize that we have had a 'quiet summer' because young people had jobs. Some $11,500 is needed."

Group Forms To Fight for More Jobs

Close to 100 San Mateo County representatives of labor, industry, education, construction, banking, agriculture, retail trade, and homeowners joined forces last week to create a new county-wide political organization—the Coalition of Concerned Citizens.

One of its purposes is to fight "extremists" in the environmental movement, who are putting up candidates for public office. The meeting was held in the San Abruzzo Memorial Plumber's Union Hall in Burlingame at 4 p.m. The next meeting is set for February 23 at the same time and place and the public is urged to attend.

"The more people are informed, the better for all of us," said spokesman Bob Senz. "We are not a clandestine organization."

The first project of the Coalition will be to interview candidates for the San Mateo County Council and the various school district boards in the April 11 election. Issues and propositions will be examined.

Candidates and propositions will be endorsed and supported by a "full-scale precinct organization." It is aimed at informing the "grass roots" voters whose present and future way of life, his physical and economic welfare and environment is now being decided at the polls, "according to spokesmen for the organization."

Plumbers' Union Business Agent Tom Hunter opened the meeting and turned the gavel over to Senz. A resident of El Granada, Senz is a private business management and computer consultant.

Impetus for the organization came from a reported loss of more than 2500 union jobs in San Mateo County, stemming from a loss of an estimated $109 million in construction work, Senz said today.

"What has happened is that the working man, the farmer, the store clerk, and their employers — have 'receded out.' They are realizing that they left the field to a vocal, over-zealous, well-intentioned, but frequently misinformed group of people, who are applying pressure to government."

Senz said the Coalition's aim is to "re-establish a balanced, objective viewpoint" and to have a voice before city councils, boards of supervisors and other governmental agencies currently responding to "extremists' demands."

Coalitions of the same type are spreading state and nationwide, Senz said.

He emphasized the Coalition's prime goal also will be to "undertake studies and analyses on economic and environmental issues, to get at the facts and offset the frequently overstated, dramatic scare tactics adopted by the extremists who seek to halt all change, all growth, all development throughout the state and nation."

The articles of incorporation of the organization set forth the following: "The objectives of the Coalition are the protection of the economic, social, and environmental elements of the San Mateo County region, through an action-oriented membership of individuals and organizations of labor, business and industry, commerce, agriculture, education and civic improvement associations."

"To offset the collective actions generated by extreme individuals and groups, by advising members of priority issues that detrimentally affect the membership, and to alert and mobilize the members into an effective counter-active political force that shall support or oppose issues for the purposes of insuring sound and reasonably balanced economic, social and environmental decisions."

The scope of the coalition's programs will complement the various existing associations whose charters stress environmental excellence with practical economic development and full employment.

Burglaries in 3 S.S.F. Homes

Three burglaries, in which homes were ransacked, were reported by Daly City Police last week.

Victims were Katie Williams on San Miguel Avenue, Yvonne Purcell on Southgate Avenue, and Raymond Veit on Forest Grove Drive.

In the Williams burglary, the house was thoroughly ransacked, with clothing and jewelry as well as household items taken. In the other two offenses, money and guns were taken. Daly City police would not disclose the extent of the losses on only that they were "excessive."

Redwood City Claims Manager Is Arrested

The manager of the Redwood of a section of the state insurance code which make it a felony to present any false claim, has been arrested by police for allegedly Redwood City police outgunning his company out of court.

He is Paul Edward Busi, 44, of Mountain View, who was arrested at the county jail on Monday. According to Detectives John charges of embezzlement, grand McCreagh and John Hansel, conspiracy and violation Busi said he was having problems with his wife and wanted to leave. They reported he had the money in the account of his sister, Mrs. Marie Trango of San Bruno, explaining he had he money but did not want his wife to know about it.

All but $50 of the money has been spent, however, the officers reported. A policy holder of the company was referred to Busi after being in an accident in San Francisco on May 11, 1971.

The accident was then referred to Joseph Cryns, an adjuster for a claims agency. Cryns told police that he had been told by Busi that a woman passenger had been severely injured in the accident, and had been hospitalized in St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco.

Cryns said Busi told him he had settled for $205 in medical expenses and for loss of income from loss of wages.

Busi told Cryns that he had settled for $205 in medical expenses and for loss of income from loss of wages.

San Mateo Park Friends Plan Strategy

"Friends of Parks and Recreation" a group of San Mateo City-cut in his sister's name, according to police.

Further investigation, however, determined only the two drivers were involved in the accident, and that Mrs. Trango at no time had been a patient in the hospital.

Busi told Cryns that he had settled for $205 in medical expenses and for loss of income from loss of wages.

Outdoor Recreation issue to come before the voters in April. Other committee chairmen include: Tom Lewis, speakers bureau; Bob Turner, endorsement; Mrs. Gail Roads, area coordinator; Fred Beland, publicity chairman; development and preservation to be included in the Park and Recreation Commission year financial program.

Chairman of "Friends of Parks and Recreation" is Bill Sullivan, a San Mateo lawyer.

Recall in Colma; Nepotism Charge

THERE IS A RECALL movement underway in the North County. That's no news. What is news is that the folks down Colma way are sponsoring a recall against Councilman Raymond Ottoni, Sr., an alleged nepotism charges. The hometown folk sponsoring the excitement over there in Tombstone Territory point to the councilman's action on appointment of his son as chief, over protests of the people, and also on helping in the appointment of the ousted (by voters) Glenn Duncan to the council, purportedly a relative.

AND IT LOOKS like a recall is in the making over in Brisbane. Our source says it's another attempt to dump councilman Jess E. Salmon who has thus far survived two other recalls over the years and God only knows how many nasty name-calling.

SOME FOLKS ARE laughing but not us. Over that news release from the San Mateo Community College District. It names five people from the Daly City-Colma area as advisors to the district. The name of Colma GOP Raymond Ottoni is thereon.

A couple of disbelieving South C. officers claim that someone in an elected county position might have greased the way for that appointment. We ignore such rumbles and like to think that the chief got the appointment because of his exceptional ability as a police officer and upholder of the Law of the Land.

OUR ESTIMATION OF the college appointments is about the same as the County Grand Jury — absolutely zilch! The Grand Jury gets less and less GRAND for our money every year. But let us not open up old wounds between this withered reporter and the District Attorney's Office.

SACRAMENTO FLASH — Is there an effort underway in the Capitol by a local politico to hush-hush that recently completed Auditor's Report of the Jefferson Elementary School District? As soon as same is denied or confirmed we intend to tell all. Efforts were made in recent days to contact both our Assembly and Senatorial representatives — that would be Louis Panan and Arlen Gregorio respectively. Thus far, only a response from Gregorio.

MEANWHILE, OUR CRYSTAL ball shows that the Auditor's Report is nothing more than a repeat of that local audit report of some five years ago.

If memory continues to serve, that auditor mentioned something about unusual travel reports, sloppy bookkeeping on expenses, etc.

WOULD IT BE TOO much to ask that the report, favorable or unfavorable, be brought out as soon as possible — regardless of the upcoming April 17 election. If there is something amiss why shouldn't the public know BEFORE the election. Seems to us it might be a chance to clear the air on a lot of little rumors floating around.

MOTTO OF THE WEEK — On all Post Office stationery is this inspiring message: "The survival of the U. S. Postal Service depends upon everyone giving service. Service is the only thing we have to sell." Signed — E. T. Klassen, Postmaster General. Plow, boy that Mr. Klassen is one funny fellow. He can keep his service, all I want is my mail.

DEAR CHIEF PETROCCI, I am a motorist in Daly City and I want to ask you if there is anything you can do about those shopping carts people and kids park all over the place.

They are in streets, on sidewalks, denting the sides of cars, filled with new and old newspapers, on lawns, and practically everywhere except on roofs and in trees. The shopping store people don't seem to care about preventing their being rolled out of the center and I thought perhaps you might use your good offices to do whatever necessary to keep these hazards out of streets and off sidewalks.

May I suggest pistol-whipping the next person one of your officer's spot pushing one along the roadway? Signed. Anonymus.

Legislative Process Very Human; Lawmaker Embraces Varied Influences

The legislative process is a very human one, and an understanding of its essential nature explains some of its limitations. An individual legislator lives in a complex milieu which includes his constituency, but also embraces influences that are much closer at hand. His real environment is that of Sacramento or Washington.

In these places he is surrounded by a busy and at times glittering life, with its own stimuli and pressures. There he meets his peers and enters into a new group existence. As tenure continues he develops close ties with the people near him — the men he meets on the floor, in committee, and at social gatherings.

He is surrounded by people on the governmental payroll, including the members of his own staff and those of other legislators. He constantly meets with representatives of the executive departments, especially those men assigned to oversee his work.

Lobbyists are an important part of his daily existence. They often serve a useful purpose, but represent special interests and not the people.

Finally, a legislator is highly dependent upon his relationship with the working press. Unable to be in two places at once, he needs print. TV and radio coverage to reach the folk back home.

These people, his peers, governmental employees, lobbyists, and members of the working press are far more important to the average representative than are the people of his district. He must meet his constituency only once every two, four, or six years. Those in his working environment must be confronted every day.

He knows that fair media relationships, a few good speeches, and a sufficient campaign fund will see him through most of his problems with the people. He also knows from close observation that upsetting those immediately about him is often directly related to shortage of funds or attacks that seem to arise within his district.

The inevitable result is that the great majority of legislators respond to people who live in or have come to Washington or Sacramento, and not the voters who sent them there in the first place.

Little wonder that legislative practices have flourished that satisfy the imperatives of the state and national capitals, but are totally frustrating to those at home.

Included are the following:

- (1) Legislation by rider.
- (2) Vote trading.
- (3) Separation of authorization and appropriation bills that cover the same subject.
- (4) Sloppy fiscal work, e.g. legislative reliance upon cost projections for Medical that proved to be half of 1971 actual cost.

(5) Failure to oversee ongoing programs. Congressmen are presently overloading newspaper space and the airwaves with complaints about executive spending practices that could only have developed through decades of congressional irresponsibility.

(6) Failure to combine priorities with budgetary reality. New programs are proposed and adopted without thought as to the source of required funds.

to use tax increments — money obtained from the developer — to relocate persons. Very interesting, considering that the mayor and his councilmen have assured us repeatedly that no redevelopment plans had been made, and that we were "premature" in our concerns. Are we still premature, Mayor?

ALL THAT RICE — Student Patti Gee shows the food that she and 26 other South San Francisco students subsisted on for 72 hours. One bowl has plain rice, the other, cooked spinach. (Post Photo)

DIGGING IN—South San Francisco High students return to the reality of America when their 72-hour "starve" is broken by platters of food being brought in Friday after school. (Post Photo)

Breaking a 72-hour Fast

A group of students at South San Francisco High School are eating again — after having starved themselves for 72 hours.

Their near-fast was broken yesterday at 2:30 p.m. as plates of food were brought in to their biology class. But they will forever be able to relate to that majority of the world which lives on subsistence diets.

Most trying point in their voluntary ordeal came with a visit to a local Safeway Market Thursday night, as they were in their third day of starvation. They could see — but could not touch.

"All your senses of smell are sharpened," Patricia Gee, one of the students who conceived the program last year, commented. "You can smell every kind of food."

She and student Jean Grainger explained that starving people often must endure the sight of bounteous supplies of food that they cannot afford to buy.

In the 72 hours of the "starve," the students had only three meals. Each one consisted of a two-thirds of a small cup of plain rice, a half-cup of cooked spinach, and a cup of powdered milk — adding up to 266 calories. Wednesday night, a public banquet was held, with that same menu, so that parents as well as other people in the community would be able to see what kind of food most people get. The dinner netted the students about $40.

The students hoped to make a total of $1000 — for the benefit of the Foster Parents Plan. They expect to make between $600 and $900, mostly from their sponsors in the state.

The students took part in all school activities but could not go home. They slept in the gymnasium, where they studied but did very little else since most poor people do not have a great deal of diversion all the time, as Americans do. Radios, television sets and other such devices were barred, in an attempt to create a realistic atmosphere toward starvation.

They saw one film — "Child of Darkness, Child of Light," on foster children.

Their biggest disappointment appeared to be that they failed to lose much weight, several students complained.

When the food was brought in yesterday afternoon, the 27 students went wild.

"I never thought this day would ever come," Miss Gee declared.

One girl gave an excited yelp when a boy brought in a bag of "Hot garlic bread!"

Excitement mounted as pies, cupcakes and casseroles were brought in. Finally, a bucket of Kentucky Fried Chicken was added to the buffet, with many students just digging in with their hands.

Only two dishes of food sat on a desk, completely neglected. One dish contained rice — the other, cooked spinach.

When Idealist Seeks Office

What does a man think who has been a candidate for the presidency of the United States and lost?

Here are some statements from George McGovern:

"People were extremely uncomfortable at being asked to judge issues on moral grounds. I don't know whether they felt stricken in conscience or whether they felt offended, but I would have to conclude that it is hazardous to approach great national issues from a moral standpoint."

The senator states that he learned that at this time in our country's history a candidate who stands on a moral issue "might even repel large numbers of people who don't want to be disturbed in their lethargy and apathy and who prefer not to feel conscience stricken about what the nation is doing."

HE WRITES that many Americans feel uncomfortable before moral issues.

"It is even uncomfortable to be reminded that the government we are fighting for, the South Vietnamese government, is a corrupt and brutal dictatorship. If you are doing better than your neighbor with tax write-offs and tax shelters and tax loopholes, you might know it is wrong, but you don't necessarily want to be reminded that tax reform is based on the principles of justice and fairness," he says.

Because of his campaign McGovern believes that Americans vote for the candidate who makes it easy to live with our present problems.

He writes that "there have been so many movements through the 1950's and 1960's designed to appeal to our sense of justice that perhaps people are temporarily worn out and prefer to coast for awhile."

YET, HE FINDS that many of his fellow countrymen, although really concerned about such subjects as property valuation, social prestige, and the like, grow uncomfortable and angry with the candidate who reminds them of the facts.

Looking into American history, the senator finds that Woodrow Wilson, had he been able to speak in his later years, might have said "that the idealism he stirred among millions of people at home and abroad was not equal to the cynicism and the greed in the self-centered concern predominant in America at that time."

McGovern says that Lincoln and Franklin Roosevelt and others were successful in talking of moral issues because they hid them with propositions more acceptable to the public and less moral in nature."

Finally, the Senator says that he was forced to change his positions on some issues because his original position was not acceptable to the public. One of these issues was the candidacy of Senator Eagleton for vice-president; the other was welfare reform. He believes that the questions of drugs, amnesty for draft dodgers and abortion were injected into the campaign in "what I thought was a highly hypocritical and cynical way by my critics."

SENATOR MCGOVERN'S statements were made during a post-election interview with James M. Wall and published in the January 31 issue of The Christian Century. While much of it is not relevant because it was conducted before the Vietnam truce, it nevertheless shows the disillusionment that comes when an idealist turns to politics and it makes one wonder how much truth there is in his observations.

SCREENINGS

Bob Foster

The fact that "Much Ado About Nothing" didn't come up with much of a rating, winding up in 56th spot, doesn't mean that putting Shakespeare on television in any form is a failure. The show produced by Joseph Papp was a critical success. That was to be expected. It didn't do much for Shakespeare on television, but nothing ever has.

Actually, if "Much Ado About Nothing" had been seen on Public Television and received such a rating it would have set a record. More saw the show, some 12,000,000 people, than probably have ever seen it on the stage in the U.S.

Even before the final ratings were on record, ABC had decided to do two Shakespeare dramas. The first to hit the air later this season will be Laurence Olivier in the 'Merchant of Venice'. Later, probably early next season, another Shakespeare play, "Antony and Cleopatra" will be seen. Both will run three or more hours.

It is becoming more and more obvious that all three networks feel that they must present high quality cultural type shows, despite the fact that they are well aware of the small ratings they will garner. CBS presented "Much Ado" over an entire evening, which meant that the network not only sacrificed its rating, but its advertising rates for that night as well. The same thing will be true when ABC runs its two scheduled Shakespeare endeavors. The prestige involved in doing this kind of programming, of course, is worth something. For ABC it means that it has now reached a stage in its economy growth when it can devote an entire evening to cultural programming.

Little wonder the President proposes a ceiling on expenditures, and the Governor of California proposes a similar and complex constitutional amendment limiting the spending power of the state. Such broad brush efforts should be seriously considered as they may be the only way to keep runaway state and federal legislatures from doing us all in.

Finally, what about limiting the number of terms that a member of the state legislature or Congress can serve as a means of returning government to the people?

S.M. Woman Manhandled And Robbed

A 35-year-old San Mateo woman, purse hanging on her shoulder, standing on the sidewalk near her residence on North Fremont Street was thrown to the ground and robbed of her money and jewelry by a man, San Mateo police said. The man, who was wearing a dark coat and a hat, pulled it violently until it came free. He then released her, but as she turned to look at him, he threw her to the ground and ran north on Fremont, then west on Indian Avenue out of sight, according to the police report.

She said she called for help but nobody came.

Ask S.P. Facilities Study

A request that the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors ask the Metropolitan Transit Commission to undertake a study to determine if the present Southern Pacific facilities can be utilized in any way in a mass transit system for San Mateo and Santa Clara counties was authorized Friday by the Board of Control for the county's Transit Development Project.

The board approved the request, suggested by member John C. Beckett, who said in his motion, that the board be asked to request the MTC to "establish a formal project to investigate the political and legal problems of integrating the SP commuter service into the BART (Bay Area Rapid Transit) regional transportation system and the feasibility of upgrading the level of service on the SP through public subsidy and what level of the Transit Development Project would be most effective as an alternative to a BART type service between San Jose and San Francisco." The board also was in receipt of letters from the Burlingame City Council and of the board's Transportation Advisory Committee, consisting of city managers of the county's cities, asking for a study of the possibility of upgrading SP facilities. S. H. Cantwell Jr., county engineer and project director for the Transit Development Project, said that such a study would be handled by the MTC and would be independent of the present action of his group seeking to develop a mass transit system from San Francisco International Airport to the San Clara County line. The board scheduled a special meeting for February 18 at 9:30 a.m. to further discuss the matter of a bus feeder system study in conjunction with the proposed mass transit system.

Potts and the Potted

San Carlos Police Officer Bruce K. Potts had a little problem with a drunk late Friday night.

He reported that he was responding to an alarm on San Carlos Avenue when he was approached by a citizen who said he had "half a heat on" and demanded to be taken home.

Officer Potts said that he had to wait for the owner of the building but would call the man a taxi. The man said he did not want a taxi and then walked away.

The officer went through the building and then returned to his patrol car to find the drunk had locked himself in the car.

After looking through his pockets, the officer found a key, opened the car door and arrested the man on charges of being drunk in public.

The suspect was later released after he sobered up.

Bruno Gym Contract Set

Dickman Builders, Inc., of Mountain View, last week was awarded the contract to build gymnasiums at San Bruno Park's Engvall and Parkside schools on a low bid of $963,000, other alternates, lockers, and enlargement of teachers rooms, were rejected, he said.

KARL M. BAUSCH, an executive engineer of Bechtel Corporation, retired at the end of January after 35 years of service with the company. He is a senior member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers and is a past chairman of the engineering and operating section of the Pacific Coast Electrical Association, and past president of the Electric Club of San Francisco. He and his wife, Evelyn, have lived in Burlingame for the past 26 years.

Court Order On Pacifica Cats, Dogs

A Pacifica woman has been ordered to appear in Superior Court this week to show cause why the court shouldn't order her to get rid of a number of dogs and cats she keeps at her home in violation of a city ordinance.

According to a petition for an injunction filed by Pacifica City Attorney John R. Sherman, it is charged that Jacqueline Brandt is keeping five Irish setters, one dachshund and five cats at her single-family home, 668 Lockhaven Street.

The complaint notes that Mrs. Brandt has failed to comply with an order of the Animal Control Committee, and later upheld by the city council, that she would keep a maximum of three dogs and three cats at her home.

Sherman also is asking $10,000 exemplary damages from Mrs. Brandt on behalf of the city, noting in the complaint that she had been heard to state that she "beat the city of San Diego and (L.I.) beat this burg."

Presiding Superior Court Judge G. Brooks Lee scheduled a hearing in his court for February 15 at 9:30 a.m.

Americans love gadgets — Sunset House has them

Americans love gadgets! If you don't believe it, just visit a typical Sunset House in a large regional shopping center in southern California. It won't take too long a stay at the Tanforan Center's Sunset House to be convinced that these gadget shops draw paying customer traffic!

Even though the Sunset House shops and catalogs carry almost every unusual houseware or giftware item known to western man, to the retail oriented individual the stores forte comes in the advanced methods of merchandising employed. Certainly, the super-market chain housewares buyer would profit abundantly by visiting the units for fresh marketing ideas.

The typical Sunset House buyer doesn't believe he is a specialist. Rather, he feels that to serve his customers best he should be an expert on virtually all retail categories. This is illustrated by the variety of merchandise carried by the typical Sunset House which range from kitchen gadgets to gardening and outdoor living merchandise. Truly the axiom — at Sunset House the buyer is a retailer's retailer — fits!

Beside buying with the unusual in mind, the Sunset House merchandiser constantly thinks profit potential in merchandise. For this reason, Sunset House buyers make a yearly pilgrimage to the Orient in search for the "Nirvana" in gadget merchandise.

Beside the retail stores, Sunset House also profits from big catalog sales which capitalize on a mailing of about 50 million pieces each year. The catalogs, which are distributed every six months, include thousands of items that are not stocked in the retail stores. Thus, buying for the catalogs is done independently of the retail phase of the business.

The San Bruno Jaycees will hold a free exhaust emission check on February 24, 25, at the Tanforan Park shopping center, in San Bruno, during the shopping centers regular hours. Also on display will be a propane powered truck in the center mall area.

The checking area will be in the parking lot near the El Camino Real. The Jaycees will check cars for excessive carbonmonoxide, and hydrocarbon emissions, using the same figures that the highway patrol uses in their road tests.

According to project chairman, Fred Sheppard, The Jaycees will also have on hand, a giant Frog, called "Smoggy" who will assist in the program.

The Jaycees are hoping that all shoppers will stop by to get their cars checked. There is no charge and it will only take a minute to complete.
